Richard JOLLY

Dr. Jolly graduated in economics from the University of Cambridge in 1956, and subsequently gained his doctorate from Yale University.

Presently, he is Special Adviser to the Administrator of the UNDP and architect of the Human Development Report. Before this he was Deputy Executive Director of UNICEF, with responsibilities for several UNICEF programmes, especially focusing on the needs of children and women in economic adjustment policies. He was also much concerned with reform in the UN. Previous to working with UNICEF, Mr. Jolly was Director of IDS at the University of Sussex. In 1978, he acted as Special Consultant on North-South issues to the Secretary-General of the OECD. From 1978-81, he was a member and rapporteur of the UN Committee on Development Planning. Mr. Jolly is a member of the Governing Council of the SID and acted as its Vice President (1982-85). From 1987-96, he was Chairman of SID's North/South Roundtable. On the lighter side, in 1959, he was Secretary of the British Alpine Hannibal Expedition, which investigated Hannibal's route across the Alps, raising funds for World Refugee Year.

His publications include: Adjustment with a Human Face; The Bretton Woods Institutions and the United Nations: Challenges for the 21st Century (1995); Reform and Strengthening of the United Nations, The Economics of Peace, Mass Movements of People.
